Indian Endodontic Society (IES)

Indian Endodontic Society (IES) is one of the largest Endodontic Societies with more than 4000 life members representing the endodontic goals and interests of Indian Endodontists and Indian dentists.

IES is a non-profit society and was formed and registered in the year 1988. IES has been an active scientific body in the field of Endodontics in India for the past 38 years. The scientific quarterly journal of IES is the Endodontology Journal and is a prestigious Scopus indexed journal.

IES is also the official country representative society of India with both Asian Pacific Endodontic Confederation (APEC) and International Federation of Endodontic Associations (IFEA).

Come join IES...

Let us all work together for a better and meaningful future for our specialty of Endodontics in INDIA !

Indian Board of Endodontics

The mission of IBE is to certify individuals who have demonstrated special extraordinary knowledge and skills in the field of Endodontics and certify them as 'Diplomate - Indian Board of Endodontics'.

Why to aspire to be a Diplomate of Indian Board of Endodontics ?

- The board certified clinician is recognised to have cognitive knowledge and clinical skills in his/her specialty at par with international norms.
- The board certified clinician has an edge over his/her peers when applying overseas as either a clinician or as a clinical teaching instructor.
- Being board certified is mandatory in many countries; however is purely voluntary process in India. Over a period of time, patients understand and recognise the clinical acumen and prowess that board certified professionals possess. This would definitely improve the clinical practice of a professional. In the near future, a list of Indian board certified endodontists (state wise / district wise) will be made available to the general public.
